CEHURD social justice in health

GENERATION G for gender justice

CALL FOR EXPRESSIONS OF INTEREST FOR SHORT TERM CONSULTANCY SERVICES TO CONDUCT A CAPACITY ASSESSMENT FOR CIVIL SOCIETY ORGANIZATIONS (CSOs) AND COMMUNITY HEALTH ADVOCATES (CHAs) ON GENDER-BASED VIOLENCE, GENDER JUSTICE, AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

1.0   BACKGROUND

The Center for Health Human Rights and Development (CEHURD) seeks to position health and human rights as a key strategy for sustainable development in Uganda, regionally and globally. This is intended to transfer power and resources to citizens, ensuring that communities speak out and exercise their agency. As an institution, we are cognisant that sustaining agency and action on the right to health requires building wider mass movements at grassroots and community levels as well as creating partnerships with district-based partners (duty bearers and rights holders).

With support from SONKE Gender Justice, CEHURD is implementing a five-year project titled Generation Gender whose envisioned overall change is "A violence-free, gender-inclusive and gender-just society with and for young people in Uganda" CEHURD is implementing this project with Reach a Hand Uganda (RAHU) and The Uganda Association of Women Lawyers (FIDA) across six districts of Namutumba, Iganga, Kapchorwa, Kween, Bukwo, and Adjumani.

The project has three long-term outcomes that include;

- A growing number of young men and women are mobilized to promote gender justice and prevent Gender-based violence (GBV).

- Decision-makers increasingly adopt, adapt, implement, and are accountable for gender transformative and youth-inclusive policies and laws.

- Civil society organizations are cognizant about gender justice, resilient, effective, gender-transformative, and youth-inclusive.

2.0. SCOPE OF WORK
